

Data Privacy Policy

Our commitment

We care about protecting personal data and any information we hold about you. We do not share any details we hold with third parties.

Details we hold and what they are used for

Details we hold are: name, address, email/s, contact telephone number/s.

Also, where relevant: details of conditions such as food allergies, conditions or disabilities that affect your ability to participate in a course, workshop or event. These are used only for the purposes of registering on a named course, workshop or event and matters relating strictly to such.

With regard to group bookings or those hiring the kitchen, we normally hold less information but the same rule applies for any contact details or other information taken.

How long we store personal data

Information taken for these purposes are usually kept for between 3-6 months after the course, workshop or event has taken place, sometimes a bit longer.

Our mailing list

Names and emails taken for the purpose of sending out our newsletter are stored separately and for that purpose only. Again, details are not shared with any third party. The mailing list is composed of those who have requested to receive the newsletter and anyone can opt out / unsubscribe at any time.